Structure of Axis Control

Featuring dual spindles for complete part machining in one set-up, our BX-26S Gang Tool Lathe achieves the lowest cost per part produced. What's more, the absence of a guide bushing means improved speeds, shorter bar remnants, less maintenance and greater cost savings when compared to a Swiss type machine. Ground bar stock is not required. The BX-26S allows for dry cutting, as well as the use of water-soluble coolant or cutting oil.
